DR. C. H. OTT IS NO MORE

Noted Surgeon and Superintendent of the Packer Hospital Passes Away.

DEATH ENDED HIS SUFFERING MONDAY

After a Brave Fight For Life, Far Famed Doctor Breathed His Last in Hospital Where He Had Performed Much Good Work.

Dr. Charles H. Ott, superintendent and surgeon in chief of the Robert Packer hospital at Sayre, died Monday morning at 11:30 o'clock after many weeks of intense suffering. Death was due to cancer although it was not decided that this was the cause of his illness until a few days ago after he had returned from Bethlehem where he spent three weeks in St. Luke's hospital under the care of Dr. Estes.

He was a man of fine physique and up to the time of his fatal illness had never suffered from any disease, except from some slight trouble from time to time which he attributed to gall stones. On May 20 last he had a severe attack and on May 23 Dr. Estes was summoned from Bethlehem and performed an operation for the removal of the gall stones. He appeared to recover from this operation and went to a health resort in Rhode Island for a month, but when he returned it was apparent that he had lost much of his former vigor, and another trip to Mt. Clemens sanitarium, Michigan, also failed to give the desired benefit. He then went to St. Luke's hospital where an attempt was made to perform an operation but he was so weak that the surgeons had to desist, and as he had failed to rally he was taken home to Sayre last Tuesday. It was then suspected that the cause of his trouble was cancer, and Dr. Howard Kelley, the famous head of John Hopkin's hospital at Baltimore was summoned, and announced that there was nothing that could be done.

Brave Fight for Life.

From Friday evening Dr. Ott made a brave fight for life. His display of vitality was the most remarkable ever seen at the hospital. Gasping for breath and unable to swallow, he fought for hours and finally by sheer force of vitality and determination recovered sufficiently to be able to again communicate with the members of his family. But the exertion further taxed his strength and his brave fight for life was useless.

His last hours were painless. About 2 o'clock yesterday morning he became unconscious and from then until the end his strength gradually ebbed until death claimed him.

Constantly at his bedside during the last hours was his devoted wife and with her were all his relatives, they being his sister, Mrs. Sara Lowell of Easton, his daughter, Miss Miriam Ott and his sons, Carl Ott and Charles Henry Ott, Jr.

Sketch of His Life.

Dr. Ott was the son of Henry D. Ott and was born on August 2, 1861, at Mauch Chunk, and spent the early years of his life in that place. When a young man he entered Jefferson Medical school, where he completed the course and graduated in 1882. After leaving the medical school he entered St. Luke's hospital at South Bethlehem where he served two years as interne under Dr. Estes with whom he formed a friendship that endured throughout his life.

After leaving the hospital he commenced to practice at Chapman's Quarries, and remained there for nine years. While living there he acted as local surgeon for the Lehigh Valley Railroad company.

When Dr. F. M. Stevens resigned as superintendent and surgeon at the Robert Packer hospital the trustees looked about for a man who would be competent to take this position and upon the recommendation of Dr. Estes, who had the greatest faith in his former assistant, Dr. Ott was chosen for the position, and has held it for the last fourteen years.

When he became head of that institution it consisted only of the old Robert Asa Packer residence, and has grown from that comparatively small building to its present large proportions. The number of patients has grown in even greater proportion than the building itself, and Dr. Ott had established a reputation as a skillful surgeon that was surpassed by none in this section and made his name well known among the medical profession throughout the country.

His Fame Was Widespread.

Dr. Ott was one of the best surgeons in America, and his fame was widespread. Patients came from distant places to submit to the knife held in his hands. His greatest ability was in performing abdominal operations and there are but few surgeons in the world who have performed more operations for appendicitis. In all the years of his practice and in all the cases he has operated he never had a patient die who had submitted to an operation for an interval attack of appendicitis. He lost cases of suppurative and gangrenous appendicitis but in all cases where the blood had not been poisoned by either puss or gangrene, recovery was prompt. His low mortality rate finally brought for him recognition from the world's great surgeons and many offers of positions of great promise came to him but he refused to leave Sayre. One offer he had under consideration for a long time, it being the tender of the chair of surgery in a large medical college but he finally refused, saying that he could not leave the Robert Pocker hospital.

He seemed to have been born for the work he so nobly and well performed. Of a kind, sympathetic nature, the tender caress of his hand, and his assuring smile often cheered the suffering, or made glad some one waiting for the verdict from the operating room where a loved one was hovering on the brink of death. His place will indeed be very hard to fill.

Good Business Man.

Not only was he skilled in surgery and learned in medicine, but he was also a careful business man, and during his fourteen years in Sayre, he saw the hospital develop from a small beginning to a large, and splendid institution, which will long stand as a monument to his tireless efforts.

Dr. Ott was a trustee and a large contributor to the First Presbyterian church of Sayre; was a director of the National Bank of Sayre; supreme medical examiner of the Modern Protective Association and was a Lehigh Valley surgeon. He was an active member of the Masonic fraternity, being a member of all different branches up to and including the 32nd degree. He was also a member of the I. O. O. F.

He is survived by his wife and three children, a daughter Miriam, and two sons, Karl and Charles. Mrs. Sara Lowell of Easton, is a sister of the deceased.

Funeral Wednesday Afternoon.

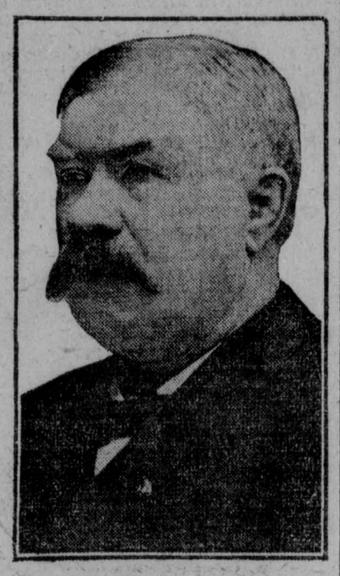
Funeral services for the late Dr. Ott were held at the Ott residence at Sayre Wednesday afternoon at 4 o'clock. The body will be taken to Easton on train No. 8 Thursday morning, and interment will be made in the cemetery at that place.

Burn With Hopefulness.

Says the Williamsport Sun "We knew! it The Pittsburg, Binghamton and Eastern railroad project has been revived. It is announced that the receivers held a meeting in New York the other day and that something will surely be "doing" soon. Heigh, ho! Canton is yet in line to hear the reverberations of the P., B. & E. "lokies" and that coal in the Oregon Hill district may well burn with hopefulness."

Failed to Obey His Orders.

William Owens, buried at Mill City, Wyoming county, on Tuesday, had built for himself a coffin 10 years ago, and made request that his grave be under an old hickory tree. After Owens' death the family placed the body in a modern casket and made interment in the cemetery. He was 85 years old.



GEORGE W. KIPP.
[Democratic candidate for state treasurer of Pennsylvania.]

Mr. Kipp with Mr. Munson, the Democratic candidate for Supreme court justice, carried Bradford county. Mr. Kipp lives in Towanda, and Mr. Munson is a citizen of Williamsport, thus their great popularity in this Republican stronghold.

REPUBLICANS VICTORIOUS

Stober, Sisson and Von Moschzisker Elected By Normal Majorities.

KIPP AND MUNSON HAVE CARRIED BRADFORD COUNTY

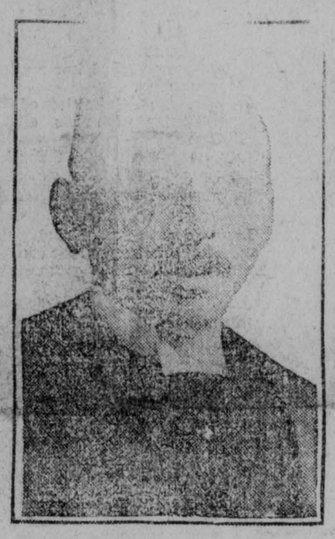
Towanda Borough Goes Democratic On Everything Except Jury Commissioner---A. C. McGovern Elected- -Gaynor Wins in New York.

The entire Republican ticket in Pennsylvania was elected Tuesday by a normal majority. In Philadelphia, Pittsburg, Harrisburg and the large cities of the commonwealth the Republican majorities were very large, while in the country districts the majorities were reduced.

THE SUCCESSFUL CANDIDATES.

State Treasurer—J. A. Stober.
Auditor General—A. E. Sisson.
Supreme Court Judge— Robert von Moschzisker.
Jury Commissioner—A. C. McGovern.

The fight for district attorney in Philadelphia brought out a large vote. At midnight 778 of the 1100 precincts in Philadelphia county gave Samuel P. Rotan, the Republican candidate, a majority of 42,000. Von Moschzisker, for supreme court judge, and Stober for state treasurer on the Republican ticket, ran ahead of Rotan.



ROBERT VON MOSCHZISKER.
Elected Supreme Court Justice of Pennsylvania.

McGOVERN ELECTED.

A. C. McGovern, the Republican candidate for jury commissioner, is elected by a large majority. While the head of the ticket was being slashed McGovern was not touched, and thus wins easily.

TOWANDA BOROUGH FOR KIPP.

Towanda borough, the home of Hon. George W. Kipp, the Democratic candidate for state treasurer, gave him a nice majority. Mr. Kipp can justly be proud of the vote he received in his home county as well as in his home town, both Republican strongholds.

VOTE WAS VERY LIGHT.

The vote in Bradford county and in the rural districts of the state was extremely light, only about one-half of the normal vote being polled. In the large cities where municipal fighting was a feature, the vote was very large.

AMENDMENTS CARRIED.

The ten amendments to the state constitution have been carried. The vote "for" in the counties of Philadelphia and Allegheny, with some of the other thickly populated districts has been large enough to decide the issues in favor of the changes. In Bradford county the vote on these amendments was "no" in the majority of the districts heard from.

THE RESULT IN TOWANDA.

STOBER LEADS IN 53 COUNTIES.

Fifty-three counties out of 67 in Pennsylvania, excluding Philadelphia and Allegheny, but including most of the other populous counties, show a growing plurality for Stober. With only 14 counties missing, including the Republican strongholds of Philadelphia and Allegheny, Stober has a plurality of 27,847. Some of the counties carried by Munson include the following: Blair, by 1000, though carried by Stober for State Treasurer by 1800; Centre, by 1800; Clearfield, by 150; Cumberland, by 400; Dauphin by 300, though carried by Stober by 2500; Fulton, by 100; Lehigh, by 1500; Luzerne, by 1500; McKean, by 200; Mifflin by 200; Monroe, by 1250; Northampton, by 1200; Northumberland, by 1500; Pike, by 400; Potter, by 500; Schuykill, by 4500; Snyder, by 200; Washington, by 150; York, by 2500.

HIS NAME A HANDICAP.

Robert Von Moschzisker, the Republican candidate who has been elected justice of the Supreme Court over C. L. Munson of Williamsport, was greatly handicapped by his name. In many districts of Bradford county electors voted for Munson simply because they did not like the foreign sounding name of the Republican candidate.

Big Potato Yield.

J. J. Zurn of Towanda township, yesterday brought to this office two potatoes which weighed over five pounds. Mr. Zurn harvested 350 bushels from two acres of land, which is considered a very good yield.

JOHN K. STOBER.

LEHIGH VALLEY COMPLIES WITH LAW.

Case Against Company in Chemung County Will Be Discontinued.

Action against the Lehigh Valley Railroad company, as one of three defendants in an action brought in Chemung county, N. Y., by the Attorney General through District Attorney Bogart for failure to comply with the New York state semi-monthly pay law, will be discontinued.

These railroad cases will come up before the grand jury which sits at Elmira in connection with the coming term of Supreme Court, opening November 8.

Plans were under way to submit all three casse to the grand jurors for indictments if the facts warranted. Recent developments will relieve the Lehigh Valley of its responsibility in defending an action.

District Attorney Bogart has investigated thoroughly and has come to the conclusion that the Lehigh Valley company has complied with the semi-monthly pay law.

A recent case of the people against the city of Buffalo qualifies the Lehigh Valley as complying with the law.

The Lehigh company has paid all its employes monthly except clerks, freight foremen and baggage agents. In the case in point, which decides the question, it was held that clerks, freight foremen and baggage agents do not come under New York state labor law under discussion and cannot be classified as employes whom the law says shall be paid semi-monthly.

Inasmuch as the Lehigh has paid all except such employes twice each month the action against that company will be discontinued.

WORK OF THE GRIM REAPER

ELIAS POWELL SUDDENLY SUMMONED BY DEATH

Heart Disease Caused Demise of Well Known Colored Man Monday.

Elias Powell, one of the best known and most highly respected colored men in Towanda, died very suddenly Monday morning, at the Powell home on Third street. He had been ill during the Summer, but was gradually improving and on Sunday was feeling better than he had in several months. Monday morning, when he arose, he remarked that he was feeling more like himself. A short time later he was dead, the end coming suddenly and without warning at 6 o'clock. Heart disease was the cause of death.

Elias Powell was born in Maryland 58 years ago. At the age of 14 he came to Towanda, and entered the employ of the late M. C. Mercur, continuing for 23 years. He then entered the employ of the Humphrey Brothers & Tracy, and for 15 years worked in the shipping department of the shoe factory which was located in the building now occupied by the Seneca Silk Manufacturing company. When the manufacturing of shoes was discontinued, Mr. Powell entered the employ of Rodney A. Mercur, Esq., where he remained until his death. Twenty-six of his 58 years of life were spent in the employ of the Mercur family.

Too much in praise cannot be said of the life of Elias Powell. As a boy and as a man he was trusted fully by his employers, and others, and he never betrayed a trust or caused any one to lose confidence in him. Honest and sincere, quiet in manner, and fond of his family and home his citizenship was worthy of emulation. He was industrious and frugal, and succeeding in establishing a home for his family, and educating his children far more than the average colored man does. It can be truly said of Elias Powell that he was a good citizen and a real credit to the colored race.

He is survived by his wife and three sons, Fred of Pittsburg, Richard and Hiram Powell of Towanda, and two daughters, Miss Elise Powell of Towanda, and Miss Annie Powell, a teacher in the schools at Middlesboro, Kentucky. Two sisters living in Maryland also survive.

SHOOTING AFFRAY PREVENTED BY GEORGE B. WINTER.

Overheard Threats, Watched Developments and Spoiled Game.

George B. Winter, a special police officer, Saturday night prevented a shooting affray in Towanda. Seymour Hotaling of Sayre, was the man who was kept from committing a crime.

Hotaling has been sweet on a woman for some time, and a week or two ago she came to Towanda to visit at a house on the island. While there she was quarantined for scarlet fever, and Hotaling was compelled to keep away. in his absence, Joe Johnson paid attentions to the damsel, and when Hotaling came to the county seat Saturday to see his sweetheart he found he was a second choice, and a dim one at that.

He collected a party of friends, and after a number of visits at a joy dispensary, they started on the warpath. Officer Winter heard one of the party say that he would shoot some one. Hotaling led the party into a store and when Officer Winter saw them looking at revolvers, he decided it was time to act, and summoning Chief Miller waited for the bloodthirsty.

Meeting Hotaling and his friends, Chief Miller requested that they all go to the city hall, where Hotaling was searched and on his person was found a new revolver, a box of cartridges, and a pint of alcohol. He had another pint or two of the juice in his "dining room," and was placed in a cell, while the rest of the party were allowed to depart.

Yesterday morning before Burgess Frost he pleaded guilty to the charge of disorderly conduct, and was fined $3 and costs, giving the new revolver and cartridges as security. He boarded the first train for his home in Sayre. He was at a great loss to now how the officers found out he had the revolver, and that he was after Joe Johnson's scalp. Before leaving, he told Chief Miller that he was very glad that it turned out the way it did, for he was crazy drunk, and if he had not been arrested, he would have probably committed a terrible crime.

WORKED MORE THOROUGHLY THAN CARRIE NATION COULD.

A Bankrupt Brewery is Completely Stripped of Tons of Metal Piping.

Not satisfied with having the Bloomsburg Brewing company bankrupt, thieves have broken into and stripped the plant of everything metal and movable.

Not content with taking all the brass fittings in sight the thieves went to work with hack saws and cut down everything they could reach They even sawed out sections of iron and steel pipes from the refrigerating rooms.

The mystery in the whole matter is how the thieves managed to conduct such wholesale operations for it must have taken a number of days and nights to accomplish it.

It is estimated that they got away with nearly a car load of brass, lead, iron and steel and had still a pile of sawed metal of all kinds, tied up with ropes and awaiting removal.

The plant is a wreck. It looks all right from the outside but the interior looks as though a cyclone had struck it.

It is estimated that the damage done will amount to $2,000 or more.

NOVEMBER.

Colors of scarlet, gold and brown,
From bush and tree come fluttering down.
Winds are sighing,
Flowers are dying,
While gray leaden clouds, flit o'er the sky,
Telling me sadly, nature must die.

The birds to their southern homes have fled,
And the violets sleep in their mossy bed.
The frost King is here,
My blossoms to sear,
And soon I know old Winter will throw,
Over mountain and valley his mantle of snow.

The stream that laughed and gurgled along,
Sings no more, for me its rippling song.
But rests profound,
Like a captain bound,
'Neath a network of pearls, an inanimate thing,
Calmly, waiting the soft breath of spring.

There's a seeming unrest in the swaying pines,
A dirge-like sound, is heard in the wind.
The sumac is red,
Fond hopes are dead,
So with each passing year, I can but remember,
That the Autumn of life, creeps on like November.

Made Good Record.

Thomas Piollet, son of Hon. and Mrs. Louis Piollet of Wysox, who is now a student at State College, made an enviable record in baseball the past Summer. He pitched 27 games for the Cripple Creek, Colorado, professional team losing but four of them.. One of the games which were lost, he had 17 strikeouts and allowed but four hits. Piollett has wonderful speed which he mastered as to control, and thus made good as a tosser. His batting average for the 27 games was 308. He refused an offer to pitch for a team in the Western league the coming season, prefering to come East. Piollet is one of the best athletes ever developed in Bradford county, having been a member of the Cornell boat crew while a student in that university, and is playing a great game on the State College varsity football team this season.

They went over to Alonzo Fulford's in Litchfield on Friday evening, where they will stay several days.

A Remarkable Record.

William Woodward, a brother of L. H. Woodward of Athens, a Lehigh Valley railroad conductor with a run between Wilkes-Barre and Sayre, has what is believed to be the most remarkable record of any conductor in the United States. He is now serving his forty-second year on the road. All of that time he has been a conductor, and, what is more remarkable he has had the same run—Wilkes-Barre to Sayre and return—continuously. Mr. Woodward began his work in 1867, soon after the road was opened, and has kept it up without a break since then. During all that time there has been no serious accident to Conductor Woodward's train, and not a trainman on it or a passenger it carried has been killed.—Athens News.

PROF. FRANK SMALLEY RECEIVES TWO HIGH DEGREES.

The LL. D., Has Been Bestowed Upon Him by Two Universities.

To Dean Smalley of Syracuse University has come the unusual experience of receiving in one week the highest university honors that two prominent universities could bestow. On Oct. 20 last Colgate University at Hamilton, N. Y., conferred upon him the degree of LL. D., and three days later he received from Union University the same degree.

Towanda has given to the world many sons who have achieved honorable distinction in their chosen field of endeavor. The roll of honor is long and lustrous and is still growing. Among this goodly number is written the name which stands at the head of this article. Unaided by the adventitious props of wealth or influence, alone he breasted the "blows of circumstance," working his way through college to an assured position in the great University where for 35 years he has been connected with the faculty, during which time he has advanced from the position of instructor to that of dean of the College of Liberal Arts. These years of service have been full of achievements that have won for him a reputation which reaches far beyond the bounds of Syracuse University.

Towanda, where he was born, where he grew to early manhood, and where his early education was begun, is proud to claim him as her worthy son and to him sends greetings and congratulations upon his hard earned success and his honors meritedly won.

NO SIGNS OF RABIES IN ULSTER TOWNSHIP CANINE

Dr. L. G. Marshall Gets Report on Dog Killed by William Heath.

Dr. L. G. Marshall, the veterinary, Friday received a letter from the State Livestock Board stating that the head of the Shepherd dog sent to the Board for examination one week ago Friday showed no signs of rabies.

The blood from the head, and the brain were given a thorough test but no negri bodies were found. Rabbit will be inocculated to make the test complete, but it is not expected that rabie symptoms will be developed.

This is the dog killed by William Heath of Ulster township. The animal had been acting strangely, and in order to be on the safe side, Mr. Heath put it to death. Considerable worry was caused Mr. Heath and family by the reason that the dog had played with their two years' old child and it was feared if the animal had rabies it might have given the child the terrible disease by licking a sore on the face.

The report of the Sanitary Board again disproves the claims of the non believers in rabies that any dog's head sent in for examination will be reported upon as having been a sufferer with the disease.

The stomach is a larger factor in "life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness" than most people are aware. Patriotism can withstand hunger but not dyspepsia. ELECTION RESULTS.

Pennsylvania, as usual, has elected the Republican ticket. A. E. Sisson, Republican candidate for auditor general, and J. A. Stober, Republican candidate for state treasurer, will have pluralities now estimated at more than 125,000. C. L. Munson, Democratic candidate for Supreme Court judge, ran well ahead of his ticket but it is believed he will be defeated by at least 60,000 votes.

The vote on the constitutional amendments was light, but it is thought they all carried.

In Philadelphia Rotan, the Republican "organization" candidate for district attorney, was elected by about 40,000 majority, after a hot fight.

We cannot at this writing—Wednesday morning—give the result in Bradford county, but 58 districts have been heard from. There was much splitting of tickets and it will require the official vote to determine. In the 58 of the 71 districts Kipp has a majority of 347, and Munson 120. Sisson leads Clark by 728. In Towanda borough the entire Democratic state ticket was chosen, Mr. Kipp candidate for treasurer, and Munson, for Supreme Court judge, having received over 300 votes each. Mr. McGovern, the Republican candidate for jury commissioner, is elected. The vote in the county was light—an off year showing.

In New York city, which has been the storm center of the State, Tammany Hall scored a decisive triumph in the Mayoralty election, Judge William A. Gaynor, the Democratic nominee, supported by Tammany, rolling up a plurality of upward of 70,000 over Otto T. Bannard, Republican, who in turn led William R. Hearst by a plurality of 25,000.

A TEMPERANCE SERMON.

An occurrence in Towanda on Saturday evening last illustrates well the way in which many murders are committed. A man got it into his head that he had been wronged, and proceeded to drown his sorrow by pouring into his stomach a supply of liquor that set his brain on fire. Then he bought a revolver and cartridges and started out to even up matters with the one who had wronged him. The officers of the law discovered the situation and stopped the drunken man on his way to administer punishment to the one whom he believed had done him an injury, and took him to the lock-up. When searched he gave up a new revolver, a box of cartridges and a pint of alcohol. The next morning, after turning in his revolver and cartridges in lieu of the $3 fine imposed, he told the officer he was glad the matter turned out as it did, for he was crazy drunk and would probably have killed someone It is likely he spoke the truth, for all the conditions were there for a murder, or a bad shooting affray. It was the liquor that did it. The drunken man without the revolver would have been bad enough, but he couldn't have shot his victim on sight. If he had the revolver and was sober he might have thought murder, but the cances are he wouldn't have done it. But he had both, and hatred in his heart, and was ripe to conceive a bloody plan and then to execute it. Under conditions identical with these thousands of murders are committed every year. Hatred, alcohol and a gun are a bad mixture. Any one of the ingredients is bad. With any two of them the situation is worse, but there is a good chance for some saving feature to intervene before blood is spilled. When all three of them are mixed, as they seem to have been in this case, then look out for trouble. A watchful officer saved the day—or the night—this time.

Is it any wonder then that millions of people in this country are now banded together in organizations for the sole purpose of suppressing the liquor traffic?

Brother Taylor of the New Albany Mirror has arranged to assume the management during the winter of the Laporte News Item, and the plan will give Mr. Wing, editor of the Laporte newspaper, an opportunity to spend the winter in Florida for his health's sake. When Editor Wing flies back north in the gentle spring time he will find that his substitute has entertained so well the subscription list that he has not been missed. That is, he will if the News Item is an entertainingly edited as the Mirror has been. We wish the Laporte scribe entire restoration to health, and may Mr. Taylor have a lot of fun in running the News Item. We imagine there might be more fun running someone else's newspaper than in running one's own.

THE COST OF LIVING.

Everyone knows that the cost of living and the prices of farm products have climbed high and many are asking why. The Wellsboro Agitator man believes it is because of the increased gold production, and the fact that the farms have not kept up with the increase in population and the demand for foodstuffs in this country. It is an interesting topic of discussion and for investigation. A correspondent of the New York Sun the other day said that if matters should not change the increased cost of living would elect any candidate for president in 1912 whom the Democrats should put up, not barring Bryan. The increased cost of living is a matter which interests everyone, for obvious reasons. A few weeks ago the Philadelphia Record said that the cost of living has become so excessive in the United States that a study of the means of reducing it is the most important and engrossing problem that confronts the nation. There is much disagreement as to the cause of the trouble, but no one denies that the trouble exists and is making itself felt more every day. Secretary of Agriculture Wilson has given his ideas on the subject in a most interesting way. We append them:

"There is one potent reason for the high prices of foodstuffs in the United States, and that is the farmers can't get enough help.

"While the population of the United States has been steadily increasing through the usual additions at home and from immigration, the cultivated area of the country is decreasing. Thousands of acres formerly raising products that made the food of the country have gone back to pasturage. The farmers simply cannot get the men to raise crops.

"The city draws not only the laborer who might go to the farm, but the boy raised on the farm. Outside the fascination to bright lights, amusement and the excitement of mingling with people, there are the shorter hours and the better pay. The farmer has doubled his wages in the last 15 years, but the farmer in his busy season must work 16 hours a day, while in the city eight hours has become the rule.

"It would seem to be a wise policy to get the immigrant away from the large cities and out into the country, where his services are needed and where he has a chance to grow into a property owner. On the other hand, many of the immigrants arriving would be of no use in the western country. They are from cities in Europe or have farmed in a primitive way and would not know what to do with our modern machinery.

"It is a pity that our laws will not allow American farmers to import real farmers from Europe who know how to do the work."

DR. OTT.

The death of Dr. C. H. Ott, superintendent and surgeon in chief at the Robert Packer hospital is deeply mourned. While his terrible sufferings are at an end, which is a little consolation to his many friends, yet his passing from mortal ken means a great deal to the people of this section. In his capacity as surgeon in chief of the splendid hospital at Sayre, he was linked closely to the people of Northern Pennsylvania and Southern New York, by ties the severing of which means much. Many families in this section have at some time waited in great suspense while some member of the family was at the verge of death with Dr. Ott between. Lives were placed in his hands and many of them has he saved by the skilful use of the surgeon's knife. He was renowned for his skill, and everyone had the utmost faith in his work. His great service to the people of this section is too well known to need comment, and in his death all must surely feel a personal loss.

A Tioga county contemporary says that butter is selling "at a price almost prohibitive to any but the rich." It can be said that if all the rich ate butter there would be considerably less oleomargarine eaten than now, which is another way of saying that the eating of oleomargarine is by no means confined to the poor. Many of the farmers who are eating oleomargarine so that they may have every ounce of their butter for the fine market now available, are not in want and will never go to the county house. The oleomargarine tastes pretty good—better than some of the butter offered, and whether a butter maker be rich or poor, has money in the bank or not, upwards of 30 cents a pound for all he can make is a temptation that cannot be withstood. The opportunity will not last forever and must be made the most of. Human nature gets into this oleomargarine-butter question as naturally and unavoidably as into many other matters. You can't keep it out any more than you can the salt or the coloring matter—or, in fact, you can't keep it out at all.

"Why it is that of every one thousand American men, women and children ten have been divorced and another ten perhaps have separated from their marital partners?" asks the New York World. Where are the astounding statistics, showing that 2 per cent of American children have first been married and then been divorced or separated from their marital relation?

Nowadays the day that does not bring forth a new railroad rumor is of not much account. It is just possible that we may hear of the rejuvenation of the Pittsburg, Binghamton and Eastern project, or the proposed line up the Loyalsock to Dushore.—Williamsport Sun.

THE EASTERN FARM.

A few days ago the Secretary of Agriculture, Mr. Wilson travelled by automobile from Albany through Schoharie, Otsego and Oneida counties to Utica, and thence southwest to Ithaca, in order to observe for himself the agricultural conditions of the center of New York state. He is quoted as expressing himself as follows after the trip, and we commend what he says to the persual and reflection of farmers hereabouts generally, whether they be residents of New York or Pennsylvania. His words will apply to either state:

"I cannot see why people have gone away and left the farms in many parts of this state. These lands are better than the lands that are open to settlement in the West. You are near the markets of the East, and farm products are in such demand that prices have become excessive and present a problem that makes consumers anxious. Sixty thousand Americans went to Canada and took $60,000,000 with them to buy wheat lands in Canada. They would do better to take up your old farms here. I cannot see whatever started folks away from these farms. The average price of land in Iowa is $125 per acre and it runs up to $200. Iowa farmers raise cattle and horses and flourish. Cattle can be raised here just as well. You have New York city as a market. You ought to go in for milk, butter, cheese, eggs, poultry, vegetables. Why, last year 8,000,000 bushels of potatoes were imported into New York. That should not be. Good profit can be made on any of your farms with potatoes at 50 cents per bushel. The going West idea has about expired. I expect we will see men coming from the West to take up your old farms if nobody else does.'

The Secretary of Agriculture undoubtedly speaks the truth. He has given the matter careful attention and has made it his business to know. His statement is most significant and gives the eastern agriculturist something to think about. And this something is probably being seriously thought about, and the same conclusions being arrived at by more than one farmer in the west today who years ago left his Pennsylvania or New York farm because he was led to believe it was played out, and that he could do better on west land.

Could a better market be had for all that he can raise than has the Bradford county farmer today? How many bushels of potatoes were imported into Pennsylvania last year? We hope Bradford county farmers will carefully consider what the Secretary of Agriculture has said.

The people and our exchanges are beginning to think about the next gubernatorial election, which will be held in November of 1910. There will be no lack of candidates and there are plenty of them already in sight, for it is a considerable honor to be the governor of the great state of Pennsylvania. There seems to be a widespread sentiment for "another man like Stuart." Our present governor has made a fine record and is admitedly one of the best executives the state has had. He looms large in Pennsylvania now and not a small part of his popularity comes from the fact that he is a fearless vetoer. When the legislature convenes he sharpens his ax, and later on when the bills begin to come out appropriating more money for one thing and another than should be spent, and oftentimes more money than there is or will be in the state treasury, he proceeds forthwith to swing the ax in the interests of the people. It has not been in his power to prevent the legislature's making an ass of itself by voting away more money than the state's revenues would amount to, but he has had the authority to cut the appropriations down to within reasonable limits, and this he has done. The people like him and they want "another like Stuart."

It is to be hoped that you went to the polls on Tuesday and cast your ballot. If you are on the losing side you have the satisfaction which comes from duty done. If you did not cast your vote you should be heartily ashamed of it. You were recreant to your duty. This government was not made by or for such as you, and if you intend to continue your course of indifference to your civic duty, you had better emigrate. If you stay here and don't like the men elected or the conduct of government, please keep your muoth shut. If you have shirked your duty as a citizen and do not propose to do better, no one cares to hear your yawp It has ceased to be any of your business who is elected or how the affairs of government are conducted.

In a chestnut tree felled on James T. Brinker's farm at Jacksonville, N. J., there was found a bird's nest containing Mrs. Brinker's engagement ring that disappeared fifteen years ago. There were ten other rings in the nest, stickpins and a gold broach. The first love letter Brinker sent to his wife, when he was courting her was also in the nest, and now some cruel punster will probably say this tree's crop of chestnuts was very good.

P., B. & E. rumors are afloat again. We size up the situation this way: Several million dollars have been expended to good effect, and one of these days a party of capitalists with plenty of money will acquire the property and good will of the company at a bargain price, and then the road will be completed. We don't expect that the P., B. & E. company will ever complete the road.

COOKING OR GREEK?

A young woman, a modern young woman, writing in The Philadelphia Times, holds that it is more important for a girl to learn how to cook than to master the Greek language. The Altoona Tribune says it had only time to read the title of her article and its concluding sentence, but heartily approves her salutary advice to her sex. It is much more natural to see a young girl cooking the family dinner or superintending the operation with a knowledge born of practical experience than glibly reciting a Greek tragedy in the original tongue. That is, it is more natural, it thinks, for the man whose education was completed before the fair sex had abandoned the seminaries and other finishing schools and gone in for colleges and universities. Perhaps the situation may look differently to the young men who are just beginning to take hold of the machinery of this old world.

If a woman must choose between Greek and cooking it occurs to The Tribune that she is wise when she accepts the latter. The chances are that she will have more use for it than for Greek. The average university graduate usually forgets all the Greek he ever knew before he has rubbed up against the world many years and there is little reason to suppose that the woman who has achieved distinction as a classical scholar will have a greatly different experience after she has left school. The teacher or the student has need for Greek, it may be, continuously, but the business man, the society woman, the private citizen, or the housekeeper, finds little occasion to employ has been the experience of the past. the learning of the ancients in the daily routine of life.

The young girl who was born with a gold spoon in her mouth may think it beneath her dignity to acquaint herself with the practical side of housework. Her parents may share her conviction. Perhaps argument would be useless there. But this notion that housework of any sort is degrading has a place in the minds of some girls who are likely to marry men who will be sadly inconvenienced if their wives are not accomplished cooks and housekeepers. This has happened in the past. It is happening now. Much domestic unhappiness is engendered by the inability or the indisposition of the wife to cook palatable meals or to do her own work. Many a man, diagusted with the situation in his home, has got into the habit of spending his spare time in the club or the barroom rather than at home. Sometimes he even takes his meals at the club.

Even where the husband has an abundance of means and insists upon his wife or daughter abstaining from actual participation in the daily drudgery of the home, it is a tremendous advantage if the wife be a practical housekeeper. If she is ignorant she is at the mercy of her servants. But if she can do the work herself, and do it right, in the event of an unexpected emergency, it would be out of the question for a paid employed to deceive her. A housekeeper who has mastered the business is like a trained mechanic directing the labors of others—she knows exactly what to do, how to do it and when to do it.

A BIG CORPORATION'S IDEA.

TheUnited States Steel corporation, it is said, has decided to make an effort to control the drinking of the 25,000 persons in Fayette county, interested in the manufacture of coke and will invest $10,000,000 in the project to obtain possession of the nine breweries now running in the county.

While the effort to merge these breweries is being conducted in the name of the Pittsburg Brewing company, it is asserted that the Steel corporation is back of the plan, it being figured that much better returns can be gleaned on the millions invested there by regulating the drink of the coke worker.

The sale of beer by the keg or by the barrel is what the corporation objects to. It has been found that for 72 hours after each payday the coke ovens do not run more than two-thirds their capacity, and there is scarcely a payday when hundreds of tons of coke are not ruined by inability to get the proper men to care for it in the ovens.

The idea of the corporation is said to be to increase the number of licensed drinking places in the county but to kill the sale of drink in bulk.

If there is any sense or reason in prohibition, we would think that the United States Steel Corporation would close up the breweries after they buy them, instead of attempting to control the amount of beer consumed by the employees of the corporation. The move may be all right and work to good advantage, but it looks mighty queer from this end of the State.

A census bureau bulletin on mortality statistics for 1908 announces the death rate in the United States to be the lowest on record, fifteen and three-tenths per thousand of population.

It would be a hard matter to decide who is the champion potato raiser in Bradford county this year. Nearly every farmer has a claim on the prize.

With the Governor of North Carolina occupying the leading place as candidate for the Prohibition nomination for President the traditional long time between drinks threatens to stretch out to the crack of doom.

SPELLING—GOOD AND BAD.

B. D. Oxon of Brooklyn writes to The New York Sun as follows concerning the problem of spelling, the vast amount of defective orthography, and the reasons for the same:

The art of spelling is a natural gift, which a friend of mine, the late Sir Lewis Pelly, demonstrated at a large evening party. He remarked: "You know Lord Beaconsfield is not a graduate of any university, and in fact cannot spell. I received a letter from him the other day in which he spelled rabbit' with two 'bs.'" Almost every one in the company exclaimed "Really!" "Does he?" "You don't say so!" And it was some time before they saw the joke.

The use of the typewriting machine deforms our spelling. My Secretary will persist in spelling "style" "stile." A very distinguished statesman, still living, when he was in India could not spell. Not very long ago a friend of mine advertised for a woman typewriter, and he got eighty-seven replies, but there were mistakes of spelling in eighty-five of the letters, and two remaining letters were from English ladies.

The pronunciation in our Public schools is very faulty, but they never drop the aspirate, as they do in England. It is very often painful to listen to the pronunciation of our boy choirs in New York. It is a matter which choirmasters should correct. Giving the nasal sound is exclusively American. It is not found with the children of German or Italian mothers. As long as this so-called "spelling reform" movement exists it will upset the spelling of the whole Nation.

All of which is respectfully referred to those whom it may concern—principally in the schoolrooms.

THE IDEAL WOMAN.

The ideal woman seems to be a subject that most men do not tire of discussing, and the clergyman who asked for opinions from the men of his congregation got answers somewhat at variance as to details, but agreeing in essential particulars. Not long ago another clergyman in this city says the Philadelphia Ledger, assembled the opinions of pillars of his church on the subject of "The Model Wife," but on the present occasion it was the unmarried woman who was the subject matter of the argument.

One man said she must be "full of pure fun;" that she must be an individualist, and not a copyist in fashions; that she must not deal in gossip. Another astute observer and diligent seeker after knowledge declared that she must not gush or use slang or hobnob, unchaperoned, with young men. The collected opinions would fill a whole series of copybooks with maxims of a lofty morality and austere philosophy, and any young woman who undertook to live up to them would have little time for housework or plain sewing, and no time whatever for social diversion.

The man who said that the ideal woman must have a lively sense of humor seems to have spoken wisely. A business man, returning to his country home, tired out after the day's grinding moil and turmoil, met his wife as he stepped from the train. One of the passengers in the smoking car remarked the fact that she wore flowers and had a cherry laugh. "That laugh," he said, "is worth a great deal to that man."

It is a question whether the development of the ideal woman does not require the associative assistance of the ideal man. Mr. Man is perhaps overfond of laying down the law as to what Caesar's wife shall be, without thinking enough of what he in his turn is bound to do to satisfy her requirements. The ideal woman may be scarce, but the ideal man, no doubt, is rarer still.

One of the next developments is likely to be the establishing of wireless telegraph clocks in cities. At Vienna, where the Reithofer-Morawertz system has been under test several years, the time signals are sent each minute from the regulating clock at the central station to three receiving stations in the city and suburbs, and the service seems to have continued satisfactorily and without interruption. At the sending station a wheel having 60 teeth is moved forward one tooth each second under the control of a second's pendulum. Once in each revolution—that is, once a minute—the wheel closes the wireless transmitter circuit, and the aerial waves sent out affect the circuits of the electric clocks at the receiving station, advancing the minute hands one division. Each clock circuit is automatically closed about one-quarter second before each minute signal is received and opened one-quarter second after the minute. In this way other wireless waves are prevented from interfering, as, if an outside impulse should happen to be received while the local clock circuit is closed. the only effect would be to cause the minute hand to make a single advance a fraction of a second too soon.

The fact that a paroled convict shot his wife because she declined to try the doubtful experiment of living with him again is not an argument against the paroling of convicts, although it is evident a big mistake was made when this particular one was paroled.

The New York courts have made Tam many disgorge the stolen Hearst column on the ballot, probably the only case on record where any loot was recovered from that source.

IS THERE NO CHECK?

Doctors have told us that it is harmful to drink much water with the meals, because it dilutes the digestive fluids. But now we have the statement of the professor of physiological chemistry at the University of Illinois that an adult should add at least a quart of water to the amount customarily taken at each meal if he wishes to derive the maximum efficiency from the food. Doctor Hawk says that "the experiments up to date indicate that the drinking of large amounts of water with meals is most beneficial from the standpoint of health." This dispatch has been printed in newspapers all over the country and doubtless a great many people will believe the statement and follow the advice. Is the consensus of medical advice. right or is the Illinois professor right?

Some time ago a doctor, in a signed article in one of the newspapers of widest circulation in the country, advised all people to stand by an open window immediately after getting out of bed in the morning and indulged in deep breathing for two minutes, no matter how cold the weather. Ask the average physician and he will tell you that such a practice, unless you have become well accustomed to it, borders on suicide. It is a direct invitation to pneumonia.

The magazines and the newspapers frequently contain a varied assortment of advice in relation to the promotion of health from so-called experimenters of more or less prominence. Some say that the vegetable diet is essential to good health, and others that a mixed diet is necessary. Some say, always get up from the table hungry—we take more food than the body needs and the surplus causes an unnecessary strain upon the vital organs. Others say, eat until the appetite is well satisfied,—it is the best indication of what the system needs and can take care of. And so on through a maze of contradictions.

The average person does not know what to do. He sees the statements indorsed by men with title and he may be inclined to believe that there is some truth in them. The public should have some measure of protection from irresponsible or mistaken "experts" who have influence enough to get their theories before the public. A permanent body of experts of standing should be appointed under the auspices of the medical bodies to give the people certain plain rules as to eating and the care of the body, and to pass judgment upon the strange theories advanced from time to time We believe that such a body would be of inestimable benefit. The advice of the charlatan seeking notoriety or of the enthusiast who gives the results of limited experiment would not create so much mischief.

Paper is now used for roofs, clothing, water bottles, grain bags and other odd purposes. A new paper horseshoe is recommended for its great durability and lightness, and for its safety of the hoof, as it is attached with cement instead of nails. The reinforced paper of two German engineers is claimed to be a superior material for war ships, automobiles, railways and street pavements. It is made of paper pulp, canvass, linen and raw silk, reinforced with steel wire, and is light, waterproof and fireproof.

One of the greatest privileges of American citizenship is casting a ballot on election day. If you have a grievance against a candidate, don't think he is the man for the office, the only good way to express your disapproval is to attend election and vote against him. If the other candidate for the same office looks good to you, then express your approval by voting for him. It don't help or hurt to sit around and grumble and stay away from the polls on election day.

CURED ITCHING PAINFUL HUMOR

Which had Spread Over Face, Body and Arms—Swellings were as Large as a Dollar—When they Broke, Sores would Not Heal—Suffered 3 Years.

MADE SOUND AND WELL BY 3 SETS OF CUTICURA

"My trouble began about three years ago with little black swellings scattered over my face and neck. They would disappear but they would leave little black scars that would itch at times so I couldn't keep from scratching them. Larger swellings would appear in the same place and they were so painful I could hardly bear it and my clothes would stick to the sores. The first doctor I went to said the disease was scrofula, but the trouble only got worse and spread. By this time it was all over my arms and the upper part of my body in big swellings as large as a dollar. It was so painful that I could not bear to lie on my back at night. The second doctor pronounced my disease inflammation of the lymphatic glands. He stopped the swellings, but when they would break the places would not heal. He tried everything that he could but to no effect. He said I might be cured but it would take a long time. I bought a set of the Cuticura Remedies and used them according to directions and in less than a week some of the places were nearly well. I continued with the Cuticura Remedies until I had used three sets, and now I am sound and well. The disease lasted three years from the time it commenced until I was cured. Before Christmas something broke out on my seven year old brother's hands in the form of large sores. I tried everything I could think of but to no effect until I happened to think of Cuticura and one application cured him. Also, not long ago, my sister got a bad burn on her ankle. I have been using Cuticura on that and it gave her scarcely any trouble. O. L. Wilson, Puryear, Tenn., Feb. 8, 1908."

Butter and eggs are fast assuming famine prices, due to the prolonged strike of the hens and the absence of pasturage and the consequent high price of hay. The principle of supply and demand prevails, as usual, and the farmer who has his hen working overtime and his cows producing plenty of milk has a gilt-edged investment at the present time.

BERNICE BOY HAMMERS DYNAMITE WITH BAD EFFECT.

Polish Lad May Lose Sight as Result of Pounding Cap.

By unwisely pounding a dynamite cap, intended to be used for blasting in the mines, Stanni Bicci, a ten years old Polish boy of Bernice, is now in the Williamsport hospital receiving treatment. The boy's father works in the mines at Bernice. In some way Stanni got hold of a few of the dynamite caps Monday afternoon and in his boyish way was playing with them.

He retired to the woodshed and soon after there was an explosion. His parents ran to his aid and found him on the floor of the shed badly wounded and bleeding profusely. He was taken into the house and surgical assistance summoned. Dr. Christian ordered the boy taken to the Williamsport hospital.

Accompanied by his father, the young Polander arrived in that city on a Reading train Monday evening, and was immediately taken in an ambulance to the hospital. Surgeons carefully examined the little patient and found that both his eyes were affected, and that the sight of the left might be permanently destroyed. His hands and face were also badly burned by powder.—Dushore Review.

Both Runners Played Out.

Towanda was the scene of a near foot race Wednesday night, which had it been completed, would have knocked the great six mile race silly and then some. Jury Commissioner J. E. Graham, and Eugene Morley, who was enroute to his home in Asylum township from Troy, where he was summoned as a juror, had lunch at Kline's cafe, and while picking their teeth, discussed their ability as sprinters. Mr. Morley said he believed he could outrun Mr. Graham, and a race was promptly arranged. They agreed to run from in front of Kline's cafe to the Episcopal church, touch the church and then run back. Thomas Fitzgerald was agreed upon as referee and Frank J. Kline officiated as starter. The two athletes got away in good shape, set a furious pace to the Methodist church, about one quarter the distance, and there stopped and looked at one another between gasps for wind. An hour later they returned to the starting point both satisfied that they were not distance runners.

Stopped Runaway Team.

C. E. Bullock had a close call from serious injury yesterday morning while in the act of stopping a runaway team. A span of horses attached to a heavy wagon dashed up Mix avenue, and headed down Main street when Mr. Bullock rushed out grabbing the bridle of one of the horses He was suffering with a lame arm, and was greatly handicapped. The horses were traveling so fast that he was picked up and carried at least 50 feet before he succeeded in swinging around where he could get a hold on the bridle with his left hand. The team was then stopped, and outside of a shaking up received by Mr. Bullock, no damage was done.

Railroaders Asking More.

A secret meeting of Representatives of the Railway Brotherhood of this section of the State was held at Wilkes-Barre. The meeting was a long one and it is said a number of important matters were discussed, the principal one being the wage question and hours of labor. Owing to the improved conditions in railway affairs it was the consensus of opinion that the time had come when wages should be increased from 10 to 20 per cent. and the standard day of labor fixed at 10 hours. Some of the national officers were present, but what position they took on the issues brought up is not known.

Postmaster Here 50 Years Ago.

While at Dalton, Pa., a few days ago, O. A. Black of Towanda, met W. H. Perkins, who was postmaster at Towanda 50 years ago. Mr. Perkins inquired about many people who have been dead many years, seeming to have no acquaintance with the people of the City of Promise of the present. He has not been in Towanda in 45 years, and when told of the new court house and other changes he was greatly astonished. Mr. Perkins expressed his intention of being one of the old home comers next June. He is up in the 80s but Mr. Black states that he is as well preserved as a man of 50.

Struck By a Bridge Girder Which He Was Unloading at Wysox.

Linus Risenbury, aged 38, was very painfully injured at Wysox Wednesday afternoon. He was employed by Louis Piollett in unloading the material for the new bridge to be erected at Allis Hollow by the Owego Bridge company, when a girder which was being handled, fell striking Risenbury with considerable force.

A bad gash was cut in his right temple, a number of ribs were fractured and one of his shoulders was badly injured, besides many bruises which were sustained.

Dr. C. S. Means of Towanda, dressed the injuries.

J. G. KINGSBURY MAKES GOOD.

Among the many young men who were originally Towandians to the manor born who have started out in the world poor boys and become successful business men, can be mentioned J. G. Kingsbury, son of A. H. Kingsbury, one of the oldest citizens of the "City of Promise." While yet a young boy he went into the machine shops of Johnson & Maney in the building now occupied by the Frost Sons. The firm failing and going out of business, he went into the LaFrance shops for a time under the superintendency of Alexander Dione, then to New York city in the Brady Manufacturing Company, from there to East Orange where he worked in the shop of the "Wizard" Edison and to show the high regard with which he was held by his employer and shopmates, upon his servering his connection with that firm they presented him with a fine gold watch and chain. From there he went to Bridgeport, Conn., and after a time started in connection with others, a manufacturing business which is thus highly written of in a late issue of a Bridgeport paper published in the interest of the manufacturers of that city under the heading of "Bridgeport the City of Great Opportunities".

"One of the most important concerns in Bridgeport and one of the leaders and exemplar in its department of production in the east, is the Grant Manufacturing and Machine company. This company has one of the best equipped plants in this section of the country, modern machinery and appliances being installed throughout. They are engineers, machinists and manufacturers of the Grant rotary riveting machines. They also manufacture the Empire spark plugs, Tabor revolution counters, automatic vertical tapping machines, automatic horizontal tapping machines, screw slotting machines, special machinery, screw machine product, voting, counting and registering machine wheels, die filing and metal sawing machines, tool post and internal grinders, sheet metal stamping, etc. The business was established in 1900. They give employment to fifty skilled men and are carrying on a large and even increasing business. The officers are J. G .Kingsbury, president and treasurer, George B. Thorpe, secretary, Fayette C. Clark, vice president."

Monroeton Entertainment Course.

The Monroeton High school entertainment course begins by presenting the Paul Lawrence Dunbar male quartett and jubilee singers. This splendid company of trained entertainers will prove to be among the best organizations that have ever visited Monroeton. This number alone is richly worth the price of a course ticket, and yet it is only the first of a series of five equally as meritorious. The manager of the company, Theo. A. Bronson, was a member of and organizer of the Orphens jubilee singers, known to many Bradford county people. The following is the list of dates for the course: November 13, Paul Lawrence Dunbar Male Quartett; December 27, Munro Entertainers; January 14, Benjamin A. Nichols; February 12, Chas H. Fitzwilliam; February 21, New York Ladies Trio.

Good Word For Mr. June.

Says this week's Laceyville Messenger: "H. T. June of Towanda was in Laceyville, Monday, making his monthly rounds, taking orders for goods, the house he represents being the Supplee Hardware Co., of Philadelphia. There are very few men along this valley, who are better booked in hardware matters than Mr. June, this having been his life work. He is courteous and reliable, his many years knocking around on the road, having caused no deviation from the exemplary life he has always led. He is an old Towandian, having come there from the state of New York in 1867."

Fourth Suicide in Family.

Jacob Breichaupt, a well known German resident of Hawley, committed suicide by drowning and his brother and sister by hanging themselves. Monday afternoon Breichaupt secured a shotgun and placed it between his legs and then pulled the trigger and blew his head off. Domestic troubles is given as the cause for his act.

MOSCRIP BROTHERS NOW OWNERS OF BIG STORE.

Have Purchased Half Interest in Business Held by F. M. Wattles.

George Moscrip and his brother, Louis Moscrip, sons of Hon. George Moscrip of Towanda, are now the sole owners of the Enterprise Supply Company Store at Robyville, Ohio. This week George Moscrip purchased the half interest in the business owned by F. M. (Ted) Wattles, who was a partner of Louis Moscrip, and hereafter the firm name will be Moscrip Brothers.

This big store is the only one at Robyville, one of the liveliest mining towns in Ohio. The mines run steadily, giving employment to about 400 men, all of whom are supplied with the necessities of life by Moscrip Brothers. Louis Moscrip and F. M. Wattles started the store, and have been very successful. George Moscrip who has purchased Mr. Wattles' interest, has been connected with the firm in the capacity of bookkeeper for a long time, and is therefore familiar with the business. There is no reason why the new firm should not enjoy the same measure of success as the old. Mr. Wattles has not decided upon his plans for the future.

Unfortunate School Teachers.

The correspondent of this paper at Gillett, sends the following: "Miss Curance Mott and Miss Lena Hakes, both school teachers went to the treasurer of the Wells school board, A. H. McClellan, to get their month's pay. Miss Mott received $40 in cash and Miss Hakes received a check for $40 on the Troy bank. Both girls were together with team and buggy so both check and money were put in one pocketbook. When they reached D. E. Benson's, about one and one-half miles away the pocketbook was missed and diligent search and inquiry has since failed to locate it. The $40 in cash, the check for $40, the owners name and a few other trinkets were in the pockbook."

Paid For Injuries.

The Sayre Times-Record is authority for the statement that Mrs. Vogel, wife of Policeman Julius Vogel of Sayre, has been paid a sum said to be $2,000 by the S. & N. Y. Railroad company for injuries which she received when the Bernice branch passenger train and the S. & N. Y. engine and caboose collided in the Towanda yards some weeks ago. Mrs. Vogel was on the passenger train when the train suddenly stopped. She was thrown over the top of one seat and struck her head on another seat. For a long time she was in a dazed condition and her mind has not yet returned to a normal condition. It is thought that she will never entirely recover from the shock.

The Hospital's Indebtedness.

M. H. Sawtelle, treasurer of the Robert Packer hospital, at the commencement exercises of the Training School for Nurses Tuesday evening, stated that the debt was approximately $25,000. While there was no immediate way of paying this amount the very liberal bequest from the late Henry Streeter, being approximately $100,000 which would come to the hospital some time in the future would eventually place the hospital in a position where all indebtedness could be paid.

Bee at West Franklin.

There will be a bee at the Fairbanks cemetery below West Franklin on Nov. 6, 1909 from 9 o'clock through the day. All having friends buried there are requested to be present with tools to put things in shape. The L. A. S. of both the M. E. and Baptist churches will serve dinner at Mrs. Anna Burrough's.

Fatal Hunting Accident.

Alson Chapman of Avoy, Wayne county, was killed Saturday in the woods near his home by the accidental discharge of a shotgun. Chapman was hunting and stopped at a spring to get a drink of water. As he picked up the gun, the trigger was released and he received the contents of one of the barrels in his body, and was instantly killed.

Typewriter Stolen.

Some one entered the coal office of F. W. Genung at Waverly on Tuesday night, passed up the safe and money draws, and carried away Mr. Genung's typewriter. The Sayre Times-Record thinks some noted author pulled off the job. Perhaps it was a poet who intends to write more about the "beautiful snow."

Orphans' Court News.

DEAFNESS CANNOT BE CURED

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portions of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflamation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by Catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free.

SAYRE MAN FELL DOWN STAIRS WITH LIGHTED LAMP

Though Painfully Injured, He Managed to Save His Children.

Grant Swayze fell down the basement steps of his residence in Sayre Sunday evening with a lighted lamp in his hand, the results being a fire that completely ruined the interior of the house, badly disfigured the exterior and destroyed the contents.

It was about 7 o'clock when Mr. Swayze started down cellar to get a pail of coal. He had a lighted kerosene lamp in his hand and as he started down he slipped. The light flew out of his hand, and in trying to save himself he jumped, but struck on his head and shoulders. He was temporarily stunned but quickly recovered and rushed from the cellar, which was soon a mass of flames. The lamp exploded as it struck and the blazing oil was scattered about the basement and in an incredibly short time the fire had run up the stairway, and both the first and second floors were in flames.

Mr. Swayze's right arm was badly sprained by the fall, and he was unable to use it, but he succeeded in getting two small children, who were in bed, out of the house. The furniture was ruined by the flames, the interior of the house being completely gutted.

Happenings All Over the State in Condensed Form.

There are 780 inmates in the reformatory at Huntingdon.

Charles Taylor was sentenced to one year's imprisonment at Carlisle for riding a horse many miles and beating it with a piece of fence pailing.

Hugh Duncheskie killed himself while carelessly handling the gun of George Savidge, who was hunting near Shamokin and had wounded a bird, to get which he had to climb a tree and leave the loaded weapon at the bottom.

Neither side will yield in the strike among the employes of the Buffalo and Susquehanna railroad. In DuBois the places of the strikers have been taken by other men who are protected in a stockade that has been built around the works. While there has been excitement at times along the lines there has been no violence.

Accused of stealing a diamond studded watch from the home of Max Thompson at Pittsburg which she had visited as a guest, a woman was saved from arrest and disgrace by her little 4-year-old son, who softened the heart of James Egan, a detective and he released the woman on condition that she would return the stolen article.

An itinerant Umbrella mender repaired an umbrella on Friday for E. D. Pentz, a Danville merchant, and received a crisp $1 bill in payment. Saturday the man walked into Pentz's store and laid down $1, saying he had discovered after he had reached Sunbury that he had received two bills stuck together. He had walked eight miles to return the money.

Mrs. Oscar Rhodes, who was married on Wednesday was elected a teacher in the New Castle high school two days before. When the school directors heard of her nuptials a special meeting of the board was held to consider her case. In this meeting she tendered her resignation. If she had not done this several of the board would have fought to a finish to have the ban against married teachers lifted.

A little brown dog crouching upon a newly-made grave in a cemetery at Reading, reveals a story of canine affection. Stanley Green, aged 13 years, the dog's former master, was buried several days ago. During the boy's illness the dog lay under his bed, and before the burial lay under the coffin. The animal disappeared the day after the funeral, and yesterday was found upon the grave. It was half famished from its long vigil.

Oscar Hoffman, a moulder in the Frick company's plant at Waynesboro, owes his life and month's salary to a mortally wounded horse. He was fired at by bandits on his way home after being paid and the first shot struck the animal. Instead of stopping the horse started to run and carried its rider out of harm's way. One bullet went through the brim of the man's hat. The horse did not stop until it had reached the Hoffman home and it died the next morning.

Rocco Racco was hanged at New Castle for the murder of State Game Warden Honk. His heart stopped beating just three seconds less than twelve minutes after the trap had been sprung. Before he died he made a statement that he knew nothing about the crime for which he gave his life. He said he forgave the judge the jury, the district attorney, the witnesses, the pardon board and everybody else conneced with his death. He held a crucifix in a steady hand and did not falter as he bade adieu.

Indiana borough has been ordered in court to pay $300 and almost $400 interest to Mrs. Mary Ann Reed for an appropriation to pay for a property in 1883 to open up a street. The street was never opened. The appropriation was made by the West Indiana borough and it is considered unjust that the present borough should be asked to assume this debt. According to the statute of limitations it is claimed that such claims over twenty years old are not payable. The case will be carried into the superior court.

Because of the "Sherlock Holmes" ability of W. D. Moore, a farmer of Wimmers, two boys of that place, Rocco Ferno and Frank Pitack, charged with robbing the Wimmers postoffice, pleaded guilty in the judicial court in Scranton last week. Mr. Moore is 81 years old and a veteran of the Civil War. When he heard about the robbery of the postoffice he put his best ability in the science of deduction and stealthily started on the trail of the thieves. He traced the boys to the home of a young woman with whom they were acquainted and there caught them with the stolen goods.

Michael Doyle, a cripple charged with selling liquor illegally, was sentenced at Lewistown to undergo six months' imprisonment in the county jail and to pay the costs of prosecution and $500 fine. Doyle pleaded guilty to the charges entered against him. His attorney said that the man was an agent for a liquor firm and had the right to solicit orders. He had assumed the right to sell directly, and had thus violated the law. He said that since the man is a cripple he had a desire to make as much money as possible. The court in passing sentence said that the offense was plain but in view of the defendant's physical condition the full penalty of the law would not be exacted.

BUCKWHEAT, RYE, OATS AND CORN PLENTIFUL.

Bradford, the Banner Buckwheat County, Still Heads Procession.

Notwithstanding the drouth of the past season, Bradford county will remain at the head of the procession as the banner buckwheat district of Pennsylvania. Reports from various parts of the county are to the effect that the buckwheat crop is very good.

Captain J. Andrew Wilt last week made a trip through the Northwestern part of the county, and in every place he visited he found buckwheat, oats, rye and corn good crops. At Smithfield and Bentley Creek he found bumper crops of buckwheat. Some small pieces of buckwheat yielded as high as 49 bushels to the acre, while other pieces produced from 30 to 40 bushels to the acre.

The buckwheat was stunted, but every stem seemed to be loaded from top to the ground with large kernels. One man informed Mr. Wilt that after threshing and getting a splendid yield, he could put all the straw in the same bags with the grain and not pack it, there being so little straw.

County Commissioner George N. Bird on his farm at East Smithfield, has harvested 1,019 bushels of buckwheat from 32 acres of ground.

Rye, oats, corn and wheat are also good crops in many sections of the county, although the yield of these grains will not come up to former years. The drouth hurt the corn, dwarfing the ears, but the quality and size of the kernels is all that could be desired.

Hay is a very poor crop, the dry weather having been very harmful.

HARRISON WOLFE INJURED IN VERY PECULIAR MANNER.

Matches in His Pocket Ignited When He Was Dragged by Horses.

Harrison Wolfe of Trinket, Litchfield township, is in a serious condition, suffering with terrible burns and lacerations sustained in a very peculiar manner.

Wolfe had been at Athens Saturday, and shortly after 10 o'clock in the evening started home with his team. He was very tired, and soon after crossing the bridge at Athens, fell asleep. The horses, unguided, turned into Ovenshire's driveway instead of making the turn at the Franklin school house. A wheel came in contact with the gate post and Wolfe was dumped from the wagon.

He was partly stunned, but managed to hold to the reins, and was dragged through the barnyard. A number of matches in his pockets were ignited when he was pulled over the ground, with the result that his clothes took fire, and before he realized what had happened he was in flames. He managed to free himself from the burning clothing, but not until he had been terribly burned on the back and shoulders. A bad gash was cut in his head when he was thrown from the wagon. He managed to reach the Overshire house unaided, and aroused Mr. Ovenshire, who summoned Dr. Cowell from Athens. While he is in a serious condition, it is believed he will recover.

P., B. & E. Meeting.

The receivers of the Pittsburg, Binghamton & Eastern Railroad are holding an important meeting in Boston this week and there may possibly be some news in regard to the future of the road when the meeting is concluded. That the investment of several million of dollars, at present represented by a weed grown embankment and two streaks of rusty rails, will be allowed to entirely waste, is so incredible as to pass belief. We may have to wait until the "frost is out of the ground" next spring, but eventually there will be something doing on the P., B. & E.—Canton Sentinel.

All the Voters Dropped.

In Court at Wilkes-Barre Judge Fuller threw out bodily the registered list of voters in the fourth district of Pittston township, and the first and fourth wards of Edwardsville, on the ground that they were not made according to law. There was no evidence to show that many of those registered had tax receipts, or that others were naturalized, and there was proof that some were not of the legal age. There are about 1,200 voters in the three districts and in order to vote those entitled to the franchise will have to qualify before the election boards.

ARCHITECT HUSTON TO BE TRIED ON NOV. 29.

Date Set for Hearing Case Against State Capitol Architect.

Architect Joseph M. Huston, who designed the new State Capitol and the furnishings for it, will be called for trial in the Dauphin County Court at Harrisburg on November 29 on the charge that he conspired to cheat and defraud the State on a bill for desks. Huston will be tried alone.

John H. Sanderson, the contractor, and ex-State Treasurer W. L. Mathues, indicted with him, are dead. The cases against William P. Snyder, ex-Auditor General, and James M. Shumaker, ex-Superintendent of public buildings, have been severed.

Twice Huston has been called for trial, but each time his case was postponed. Tuesday Attorney General Todd and District Attorney Weiss informed President Judge Kunkel they desired to have the case tried and at their instance the November date was set.

FIRE DESTROYS HOUSE AND FIVE HUNDRED DOLLARS.

Tenement House on J. C. Piollet Farm Burned Thursday Morning.

Fire, believed to have originated from a spark from a Lehigh locomotive, completely destroyed a tenement house on the J. C. Piollet farm at Wysox, and $500 which was in the building, Thursday morning about 10:30.

The building which was located along the railroad near the Dr. Madill place was occupied by ten Austrians who are employed by Contractor Whalen on the state aid road at Wysox. They were all working at the time of the fire. A train had passed but a few minutes before the building was found to be on fire, the blaze starting in the roof, it is claimed.

An effort was made to extinguish the flames, but to no effect, and the building was completely destroyed, together with nearly all it's contents. The trunks of the Austrians in which they had their savings, estimated at over $500 were also burned. The loss of the house is about $800.

This is the second house on the same spot to be burned in practically the same manner. A number of years ago a house standing on this foundation burned, the fire starting in the roof, and the house which was erected following that fire, has been on fire on different occasions, but the blaze of Thursday could not be subdued.

Comparto Attempts Suicide.

A news dispatch from Philadelphia says: Michael Comparto, who made a confession Monday to the effect that Sabbatino De Massa, who is now held in Jersey City, shot and killed two men and wounded another in a York road saloon on Sept. 27, while he kept watch outside, made several attempts to beat out his brains in a cell at city hall. So persistent were his efforts at self-destruction that a guard was placed in his cell to watch him." Comparto tried this same trick while an inmate of the Bradford County jail.

Will Issue Clerical Tickets.

It is authoritatively stated that the Lehigh Valley Railroad will resume the issuance of clerical half rate order for the year 1910,to regularly or dained clergymen and Sisters of Charity located on or adjacent to that line. These orders will be honored for the purchase of half rate tickets not only locally between points on the Lehigh Valley railroad, but also from points on the Lehigh Valley Railroad to points on the Philadelphia & Reading railway and the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad east of the Ohio river.

Who Stole the Potatoes.

Rev. W. H. S. Heermans is looking for the party who stole about seven bushels of potatoes from his island farm Tuesday. All the potatoes had been dug, and while a wagon load was being brought from the island to Towanda, some one visited the harvest field and took away the remainder of the crop. Mr. Heermans says that he would have been glad to give the potatoes to some worthy person unable to buy them, but he don't like being the victim of a thief.

Completing Pavement.

The brick pavement on Main street below Bridge street is being completed after considerable delay occasioned by the non arrival of brick. It will require but a couple of days to complete the work, only a small section in front of the Ochs and Kinney hotels remaining to be laid.

GOOD STORY BEING TOLD ABOUT BISHOP TALBOT.

Hobo Yields Up Dollar for the Bishop's Cathedral.

People of Towanda, especially Episcopalians, will be interested in this story printed in Everybody's Magazine concerning Bishop Ethelbert Talbot, who presided over the Central Pennsylvania diocese of the Episcopal church before it was divided into the Dioceses of Harrisburg and Bethlehem, as the distinguished churchman has made frequent visits here:

"Once, while Bishop Talbot, the giant cowboy bishop, was attending a meeting of church dignitaries in St. Paul, a tramp accosted a group of churchmen in the hotel porch and asked for aid.

"'No,' one of them told him. 'I'm afraid we can't help you. But you see that big man over there?' pointing to Bishop Talbot. 'Well, he's the youngest bishop of us all, and he's a very generous man. You might try him.'

"The tramp approached Bishop Talbot confidently. The others watched with interest. They saw a long look of surprise come over the tramp's face. The bishop was talking eagerly. The tramp looked troubled. And then, finally, they saw something pass from one hand to the other. The tramp tried to slink past the group without speaking, but one of them called to him: "'Well, did you get something from our younger brother?'

"The tramp grinned sheepishly, 'No,' he admitted, 'I gave him a dollar for his damned new cathedral at Laramie!'"

POTATOES IN COLORADO.

R. C. Zill Writes That All Records Have Been Broken.

R. C. Zill of Longmont, Colorado, a subscriber to this paper, writes as follows:

"I noticed a couple of articles in your paper about large potato yields and thought perhaps this article I enclose would interest some of the potato raisers back there. It is a common occurance around here and Greeley, Colo., to raise 20,000 lbs. of potatoes to the acre. Most everything goes by pound here as the bushel is seldom used. Wheat yields from 35 to 65 bushel to the acre. I had a sunflower in my garden that grew to 13 feet 10 inches in height.

Here is the potato record referred to by Mr. Zill:

Montrose, Colo., Oct. 25.—Fifty thousand pounds of new potatoes from two acres of land is the record made by Charles Marlow, who has a ranch near Caronoa. Marlow has just finished harvesting his potato crop and says that the yield beats all recrods.

The potatoes in the Montrose district are practically all dug now, and every grower reports an exceptionally large yield, as compared with last year. It is estimated that the potato yield of this district immediately contiguous to Montrose will be fully 600 cars.

The potato shippers are confronted with a shortage of cars with which to take the crop to market. Most of the growers, however, have large cellars and will store their potatoes until cars are more plentiful.

Many of the fruit growers who were forced to cease gathering their apples and yet unable to resume and there is little indication that the situation will be relieved in the near future. Railroad officials are unable to say when a sufficient number of cars will be available.

Big Crop of Mushrooms.

The pasture fields in the vicinity of Binghamton have yielded more mushrooms this season than for ten years before, according to the Lestershire Record. It is possible to buy them at a cost of 30c to 40c a pound, whereas the usual price is from 75c to $1 a pound. Many shipments of mushrooms have gone to larger cities, while others are being served in Binghamton eating houses.

Boy's Close Shave.

Ten-year-old Hugh Hughes was engulfed in a subsidence following a mine cavein at Edwardsville Wednesday. With several other children he was playing on Centre street, when the ground began to sink. All escaped except young Hughes, who was engulfed until only the heel of his shoe was visible. Miners, atfer hard work, managed to extricate him. He is now in a critical condition.

Bridge Will Be Open Nov. 15.

The new county bridge at Standing Stone, which is now being used by pedestrians, will be open for general travel on Nov. 15. The bridge was to have been ready for general travel on Nov. 1, but delays in the shipment of materials has caused the delay of two weeks.

School Board Upheld.

That a school board has power to close a school where the attendance is small and provide for schooling the pupils at an adjoining school, is sustained by Judge Little of Montrose, who last week rendered a decision in favor of the directors of Liberty township who had closed the Turrell school for the year.

Midnight Doctors.

MUSICAL SOCIETY WILL GIVE ENTERTAINMENT.

Splendid Program Has Been Arranged for Friday Evening.

On Friday evening of this week, the people of this section will have an opportunity to enjoy one of the finest musical programs ever presented in the County seat when the Towanda Musical Society will give an entertainment in the Keystone opera house.

The Towanda Musical Society has been organized over 30 years and during that time has been of great benefit to Towanda. Never before has the Society asked the people to patronize Towanda entertainment, but they do now, and the patronage should be very liberal.

It is not a donation, as the Society promises to give full value in entertainment for the price of admission to the opera house. To do this one of the best musical programs ever arranged in Towanda will be the feature of the entertainment. There will be solos, trios, duets, and choruses; piano duets and solos, and violin solos by Miss Rowena Herrmann, one of the most accomplished musicians in this section. Towanda is noted for its splendid musicians, the Musical Society having brought them into prominence, and they will all take part in this entertainment. All musical numbers will be to the accompaniment of Walker's orchestra. One of the many features of the entertainment will be a playette by Miss Mary Welles and Noble Betts.

The prices of admission will be 35 and 50 cents and the entire proceeds will go into the treasury of the Musical Society to help in the work of the organization. Tickets will be on sale and for reservation at Kirby's drug store tomorrow, Wednesday morning.

Great Demand For Oleo.

Says this week's Wellsboro Gazette: "The demand for oleomargarine as a substitute for butter is increasing rapidly in Wellsboro. With butter at 35 cents a pound and oleo selling five pounds for a dollar, many people prefer the cheaper article. D. S. Corsaw, the only dealer of oleo in Wellsboro, says he is at present disposing of about 500 pounds a week. With butter at a price almost prohibitive to any but the rich there is little surprise in the fact that oleo is getting better acquainted with the people—and the people with oleo."

NEWS OF THE GRANGES

Conducted by A. T. LILLEY

The Grange teaches "temperance in eating drinking and language" at every regular and special meeting, but some one is asking: "Which is the greatest evil, intemperance in eating, in drinking or in language?"

An inspection visit at Armenia Grange reveals these facts as existing on Oct. 20 at 1:30 p. m. A Grange with 39 members owning a hall located near the top of the Pocono sandstone formation and within a few rods of a good exposure of the Mauch Chunk red shale, situated at about 2,000 feet above tide where at this season of year it was deemed profitable as well as necessary to make, for the good of the order, some changes that would be inviting during the coming winter blasts where the forest protection has been destroyed. The master, Frank Morgan appoints a committee to see that all is "made for the best." Fire insurance is the main-stay here, but the fact is, although fire insurance is very good, the other financial and educational interests exceed it wherever the activities of Grange work is properly appreciated and carried out. The united force and desire of this Grange will make it as thriving and encouraging as the proceeds of the large potato and buckwheat fields found in Armenia where in days past hemlock bark grew to be four inches thick as seen in the museum at the County Historical rooms.

A "stop over" visit at Columbia Grange during the evening of the 20th of October found all very much interested in preparing for the three nights entertainments of the coming week held under the guidance and instruction of G. E. Wilson and Mrs. Genevieve Wilson, "popular directors of home entertainments." The "Literary Hour" of the evening was noted for interest in select readings and recitations which called out many interesting thoughts along the line of "Nature Studies" on the farm. The thought was brought out that in the vegetable kingdom as well as in the animal the fact is "male and female created He them."

Although rainy during the evening of October 21st a very good attendance was found at Gillett Grange under the guidance of the master, Ida Fletcher, ready for inspection work. Childhood, youth, manhood and old age were well represented and lessons brought to view teaching the essentials of instruction and labor in all the walks of farm life. The third and fourth degrees were conferred on a class of three followed by a bounteous feast. Two of the class are the teachers of the schools at Gillett. The lessons along the lines of Grange education were enoyed by all. Something to do, for each and all, is the road to success in any course and more especially so in the Grange where the farm and household produce the wealth and boys and girls, who evenutally control the destiny of the nation.

"The real work of the Grange is done in a quiet way in the thousands of Grange halls in the land and is bringing results in the intelligence and good citizenship in a greater degree than any other agency ever established. This is accomplished through attention to seemingly minor matters by thousands of loyal men and women who appreciate the organization and recognize the importance of close attention to details in making it a success."

The more than 4,000 members of the Grange in Pomona district, No. 23, show an average membership of more than 100 for each of the 40 Granges. The replies to the various questions sent by Pomona lecturer to the various Granges in the district show a decided improvement in the literary work. The questions for discussion have covered a large field and have brought out much interest. A few of the questions are as follows: "Silos," "Ensilage," "Breadmaking," "Saving seed corn," "Father's duty to his son," "Effect of the moon on vegetation," "The largest kind of grass," "The first to bloom, the staminate or the pistillate blossoms," "Why so few potato balls?" "Probable time that man has been on earth," "What is life?" "Ought children to be taught the knowledge of plant life?" "Who should learn the unwritten work of the Grange?" "What should be learned in the common schools?" "Which is better the school readers of 50 years ago or those of today?" "How should alfalfa, crimson clover and alsike be grown?" "The best kind of wheat to grow?" "Is the farmers' health any better under the new ways than it was 50 years ago?"

In the educational work of the Grange at least every officer ought to try to raise the intellectual standard of the members of the Grange. At the close of each year there should be a noticeable improvement in the general knowledge of questions, political and otherwise, which relate directly to farming interests. A patron of a recently reorganized Grange says: "I have tried some experience in the way of other farmer organizations, but have lost time and opportunity in so doing. We are now convinced the good old Grange is the best of all."

The end of another financial year of the Grange has passed and it is again said "all is well." Wherever there are differences of opinion as to Grange policy, the differences will be discussed at the near sessions of the State and National Granges where all may be done to further the general prosperity of the order and under a new lease of life the laborers go forth with renewed vigor to conquer all disturbed conditions and revive any semblance of dormacy in by places.

Toy Factory Still Rushed.

The Haws-LaAnna toy factory factory under the superintendency of Dr. Nuss, continues on the thirteen hours a day schedule. The factory is rushed with large orders at good prices, and it is expected that it will require at least eight weeks yet before the ten hour a day schedule will again become effective. Goods of the highest grade are being manufactured.

A news dispatch from Washington says: "Ohio leads all other states with the largest number of war and naval service pensions, having 92,507 men, women and children who draw government pensions. Pennsylvania is second with 92,066 on the pension roll. These two states furnish about 20per cent. of the country's pensioners. New York is third, with 83,394. Other states ranking high are Illinois, 66,402; Indiana, 57,042; Massachusetts, 40,098. The entire roll showed a net decrease of 5,493 as compared with the previous year."

Tomorrow's Breakfast—
Have it Shot from Guns

Surprise your folks tomorrow morning with a dish of Puffed Wheat or Puffed Rice.

Then let them pass judgment.

Go back to the old foods if your folks think them better. But we know that you won't go back.

These are curious foods, but not made to be curious. The object was to make them digestible.

They are exploded by steam for the simple purpose of blasting the starch granules to pieces.

But the result is crisp, gigantic grains, made four times as porous as bread.

The result is unbroken, nut-like grains, ready to melt in the mouth. Foods that the children like.

They are liked so well that seventeen million dishes were consumed last month. Now it is your turn to try them.

Puffed Wheat—10c Puffed Rice—15c

These are the foods invented by Prof. Anderson, and this is his curious process:

The whole wheat or rice kernels are put into sealed guns. Then the guns are revolved for sixty minutes in a heat of 550 degrees.

That fierce heat turns the moisture in the grain to steam, and the pressure becomes tremendous.

Then the guns are unsealed, and the steam explodes. Instantly every starch granule is blasted into a myriad particles.

The kernels of grain are expanded eight times. Yet the coats are unbroken, the shapes are unaltered. We have simply the magnified grain.

One package will tell you why people delight in them. Order it now.

NO HOPE FOR RECOVERY OF DR. C. H. OTT.

Dr. Howard Kelly, Eminent Physician of Baltimore, Visits Patient.

Dr. C. H. Ott, surgeon in chief, and superintendent of the Robert Packer hospital at Sayre, is in an extremely critical condition with no hopes for recovery. Friday, Dr. Howard Kelly of Baltimore, one of the most eminent physicians and surgeons in the East, visited Sayre, and after an examination of the patient, and a consultation with the local physicians offered no hope for recovery.

Dr. Kelly is at the head of the far famed John Hopkins hospital at Baltimore. He is an intimate friend of Dr. Ott, and when he was informed of his dangerous condition, volunteered to come from Baltimore and lend his assistance. This kind offer was received with great pleasure by Dr. Ott, who asked that his old friend come at once, and the trip was made Friday. Dr. Kelly's great skill is of no avail, however, and he could offer nothing better than which has already been done for the sufferer.

Dr. Ott's illness is of several months duration, and he has already passed through several critical stages of suffering. He was taken violently ill about May 20 last. He had known for a long time that he was afflicted with gall stones but had hoped to avoid an operation, but the attack was so violent that he decided that he must submit to a surgeon's knife so Dr. W. F. Estes, surgeon-in-chief of St. Luke's hospital at South Bethlehem was summoned. Dr. Ott served as an interne under Dr. Estes many years ago and his confidence in the ability of his former chief impelled him to summon that surgeon in his hour of need on Sunday, May 23 the operation was performed by Dr. Estes. Dr. Ott was then a man of great physical strength and stamina and he quickly convalesced from the effects of the operation, but while convalescing he was attacked by neuritis, or inflamation of the nerves. This inflamation caused intense difficulty in breathing, in fact at times it being necessary to administer oxygen. Finally he recovered sufficiently to travel and then he left Sayre for Rhode Island. He was at a health resort there for many weeks and when he returned to Sayre those who saw him realized he had lost his former vigor. He was fifty pounds lighter than before the operation and seemed to move in a languid manner. About a month ago Dr. and Mrs. Ott went to St. Luke's hospital at South Bethlehem where again Dr. Ott gave himself in the care of Dr. Estes, hoping almost against hope that he would recover and be able to return to his duties in the Robert Packer hospital.

While at St. Luke's he was again operated upon, and then it was realized that his chances for recovery were very few. He was brought back to the Packer hospital the other day, and now that everything that human skill can devise has been done without benefitting the patient hope has been abandoned.

SOME NEWBERRY MAN MISSED A FORTUNE.

And the Junction Employes Are Wondering How "They Passed It."

The railroad yard men at Newberry Junction are wondering which one of them allowed a small fortune to slip through his fingers the other day in a northbound car, only to be discovered when the car reached Painted Post.

Timothy Maloney, the yardmaster of the Ingersol-Rand yard, at Painted Post, was the lucky man and it is thought he has picked up gold dust valued at $2,200.

There are seven pounds of it and he found it in a little heap in a corner of a car and appeared as if it had sifted out of some receptacle.

How the dust came to be in the car is, of course, a mystery. It is not probable that it had been shipped as freight. Many theories are being recounted to explain its presence in the car, but the one most commonly accepted is that the gold dust may have been lost by some hobo miner from the west who was stealing a ride in the car.

Mr. Maloney will send a sample of the dust to an assay office and have it assayed before taking any other steps in the matter.

Serious Injury.

About six weeks ago James, the two year old son of Mr. and Mrs. E. O. Francke, while playing with his brother, ran the end of a stick through his upper right eyelid just above the eyeball. The injury was given attention by a physician and a portion of the stick was taken out though at that time it was believed it had all been removed. The wound has cused him considerable trouble since and the eyelid continued to fester and was badly swollen. Monday Dr. Rinehold treated the wound and removed a piece of the stick about three eights of an inch in length and an eighth of an inch thick.—Athens Gazette. The boy is a grandson of Landlord James Kinney of Towanda.

Fine Soda Fountain.

James Conomikes has just had installed in his "Sugar Bowl" confectionery store, one of the finest soda fountains manufactured. It is in connection with a solid marble counter about 18 feet in length, and makes a very handsome appearance. It is so arranged that the ice used to keep the ice cream solid cools the pipes of the fountain, thus being a great saver in expense. It is one of the handsomest and most expensive fountains made.

BEARS CAUSE EXCITEMENT IN ASYLUM TOWNSHIP.

One Killed Near the Ferry Yesterday. Many Join in Hunt.

There was great excitement in Asylum township Monday when the report was flashed over the telephone to every farmhouse that a real bear was cavorting about the hills and valleys. Some weeks ago Mail Carrier Allis encountered a bear in that vicinity and considerable interest was taken in matters pertaining to bruins, but the season being closed no one defied the law by hunting the beast.

Monday when the word went out that a bear had been seen, nearly every man shouldered a gun and started on the hunt. Boys and dogs joined in the chase and a lively time ensued.

The bear was again sighted, and away went the hunters hot on the trial. Reaching a top of a hill, the bear looked back and seeing the pursuers, scampered away, and was making a desperate effort to escape when he was overtaken near the ferry and killed.

Other bears have been seen during the past two weeks, and now that one has been brought down, every man owning a gun will spend his spare time looking for bruin.

MEMORIAL SERVICES FOR HARRY S. GODCHARLES.

People of McGill, Nevada, Pay Loving Tribute to Late Editor.

The people of McGill, Nevada, on Saturday, Oct. 9, paid loving tribute to the memory of the late Harry S. Godcharles, who was drowned at that place on the night of Sunday, Sept. 26. Mr. Godcharles was editor of "Copper Ore," a weekly paper published at McGill, and evidently was held in the highest esteem by the people of that section, as the following from the White Pine News of Oct., 10 indicates:

"Probably never before in the history of the district was there such a demonstration of sincere grief by so many people in so many walks of life and of so widely varied ages as occured last night at the memorial service held at McGill for the late Harry S. Godcharles, editor of "Copper Ore."

"The attendance at the service filled the Stone hall, while during the hour of its conduct between 7 and 8 o'clock every business house in the town closed its doors in respect to the memory of the departed, this notwithstanding the fact that Saturday nights are the busiest of the week in local trade circles.

"Rev. J. R. Barr of East Ely M. E. church conducted the services in the hall, which were presided over by Dr. J. B. Knoth, manager of the Clark drug store at McGill. Rev. Barr addressed an assemblage composed of those who had known and loved the departed editor for his many good qualities of head and heart, and the minister's feeling allusions to the dead man, of whom he spoke with a tenderness and eloquence born of an intimate personal acquaintance, brought tears to the eyes of a great many in the hall, including little children, brawny men, and women upon whose heads time has placed the mantle of white.

"The gathering knew neither race nor creed-only quiet sadness and grief. There were among those present representatives of every nationality in the camp, all of whom had something kindly to remember as having received from the departed and who were there as earnest friends to share in the demonstration in his memory in equal part. Ministers, lawyers, newspaper men, business men, mill and smelter workers laborers, were all represented in the gathering and met on common ground with a common grief."

Fine Delivery Outfit.

A. M. Baker, local manager of the Adams Express company, has provided one of the finest and handsomest delivery outfits for the Towanda branch of the business to be found in a long travel. It has been customary for the delivery wagons to be shipped to Philadelphia for repairs and repainting, but Mr. Baker is not in the habit of following all customs, and when the local delivery wagon needed beautifying he decided the work could be done just as good, if not a little better in Towanda than in Philadelphia, and with this belief he employed O. J. King, an artist in his line, and the wagon resplendent in new paint is a testimonial to his excellent workmanship. This being out of order with the Adams company, W. W. Bauman, a representative of the company, was sent to the City of Promise, and after making the ordered inspection of the wagon, reported that Mr. King's work could not be improved upon. In keeping with the fine style of the repainted wagon, Mr. Baker has purchased a handsome 1400 pound horse of the Stevens Creamery company of Athens, which makes the local Adams Express delivery outfit very classy, one of the very best controlled by the big company.

Good Demand For Tickets.

There is a good demand by Towanda people for tickets for the splendid course of entertainments in the opera house during teachers institute, the week commencing Nov. 8. O. L. Smiley is making a canvass, and is meeting with success. Only about 170 tickets are available for Towanda people. The tickets sold by Mr. Smiley can be exchanged free of charge for reserved seats at Kirby's drug store Monday, Nov. 1, commencing at 9 a. m. No seats will be reserved for others until the following day, Tuesday, Nov. 2.

Baseball Man Sues Newspaper.

Whether the manager of a baseball team must submit as a public personage to personal attacks by a newspaper is to be tested by a suit which Malachi Kittredge, manager of the pennant-winning Wilkes-Barre team of the New York State League, has started against The Wilkes-Barre Record. He claims $100,000 damages for defamation of character by the publication of slanderous statements. During the season The Record at frequent intervals severely criticized Kittredge and his method of managing the team, and accused him of many things not pleasant.

Iron and Steel Very Scarce.

Never before in the history of America has iron and steel for structural work been as scarce as at present. Bridge companies who have dealings with Bradford county say that it is impossible to fulfill a contract at a stated time on account of the inability to secure iron and steel. All the big iron and steel mills are running to full capacity, but the demand is simply much greater than the supply, thus the shortage.

GINSENG YIELD AT RATE OF $12,428 AN ACRE.

Troy Man Has Had Very Good Success in Raising the Root.

Says the Troy Gazette-Register: "Station Agent T. P. Rockwell has just dug the ginseng from his plantation of five by 70 feet planted five years ago, and adding the seed he has sold from year to year and has on hand, to the value of the root at the going market price, it will average him $100 a year for the full period of five years. Who says there is no money in ginseng, when a little corner of the garden, carefully and intelligently tended will roll off $500 in five years. As we understand it Mr. Rockwell will replant his enclosure and hopes to duplicate his record of the last five years in the five years to come. Ginseng has its enemies like all else in the vegetable kingdom, but there is a way to combat them as Mr. Rockwell has done and come in winner at the last.

"Wallace Newell had a fine start but rats burrowed into his bed and ate up a hundred or two hundred dollars worth of the root. He has a new plantation in a more favorable location on quite an extensive scale, and if everything goes well a few years hence will have a fine, large yearly income from his ginseng."

Towanda is not to be outdone by Troy in the matter of ginseng growing, as J. S. McNeal, of the upholstering firm of Eilenberger & McNeal has a large bed which yields profitably. He, like Mr. Rockwell, has been very successful as a grower of the root.

Former Athens Girl.

Pretty Edith Miller, barely 18 years of age, on Saturday at Elmira, was sentenced to pay a fine of $20 or spend 20 days in the Chemung county jail by Register Gill. The girl's case is a sad one. According to the story she told in the Elmira police court her mother resides in Corning and her father in Jersey Shore. Until a short time ago she resided with relatives in Athens. She was employed as a waitress at the Elmira house a short time ago and was under the direction of Hattie Shrader. Edith claims that she was discharged, but when she left she only received $4.05 while she claims that $6 was due her for her services. She admits that she stole a silver bracelet from a dresser in Mrs. Shrader's room, but claims that she did it because about $2 of her money had been withheld. Hattie Shrader issued the complaint for the girl and Miss Miller was arrested Friday afternoon. The girl has no home and it was thought best to send her to jail for a time.

DeMassa and Comparto Face Death.

A coroner's jury at Philadelphia on Friday after an extended hearing returned a verdict that James Quinn and Harry C. De Massa and Comparto are former residents of Towanda.

This is one of the fastest trips ever made between Towanda and Wellsboro.

HOSTETTER'S CELEBRATED STOMACH BITTERS

RAYMOND E. HINKLEY HAS TOO MANY WIVES.

Former Laquin Man Charged With Bigamy—First Wife Also of Laquin.

A weakness for wives has got Raymond E. Hinkley, well known in Laquin and this vicinity where he formerly lived, into serious bother in New York state. He is now in the Elmira jail in default of bail for further hearing on Wednesday of this week.

He has two wives, according to the evidence introduced at the first hearing in Elmira on Friday. The evidence is quite interesting.

Mrs. Anna L. Hinkley, wife No. 1, testified that she was formerly Miss Anna L. Schultz of Laquin, and that she was united in marriage with Raymond A. Hinkley of the same place, on May 21, 1906. They resided together about one year. One child was born which died when an infant. She identified the prisoner, Hinkley, as her husband. The witness declared that no papers in an action for divorce had ever been served upon her.

When cross-examined, Mrs. Hinkley admitted that she had commenced an action for divorce in the courts of Bradford county. She had retained Lilley & Wilson and had been informed by them that they had been unable to get Hinkley to sign certain documents. She was shown a clipping from a newspaper and asked if she had caused it to be published. The clipping was alleged to be an official paid notice stating that Mrs. Anna L. Hinkley had commenced an action for divorce against her husband, Raymond E. Hinkley. Mrs. Hinkley had never seen the article before. She had not been notified that the divorce had been granted.

On redirect examination Mrs. Hinkley stated that she had never been served with any notice of the divorce being granted, either from her attorneys, or the clerk of any court. "I never told Mr. Hinkley that I was going to get married again, and he never told me that he intended to wed again."

Rev. A. J. Saxe, pastor of the First Methodist church, testified that he had united in marriage Mr. Hinkley and Miss Swayze on September 22, 1909. Rev. Mr. Saxe identified Hinkley and Mrs. Hinkley, No. 2, as the parties whom he had married.

Hinkley's attorney made the usual motion for the discharge of the prisoner, but this was refused. He then asked for an adjournment, as he wished to communicate with parties in Pennsylvania in regard to the divorce matter. The attorney stated that defendant hoped to show that he had ben informed that a divorce had been granted in the Bradford county courts on Sept. 6 of this year and that he believed that he was entitled to marry again if he so desired.

Bail was fixed at $500 and as the prisoner was not prepared to give bail in that amount he was handcuffed to a constable to be taken back to jail. Hinkley requested that he be allowed to talk with his parents and Mrs. Hinkley, No. 2, who were spectators in the court room. After kissing his mother, and shaking hands with his father, the prisoner turned to his second love and impressed a passionate kiss on her lips. He then kissed mother-in-law, No. 2.

Mrs. Hinkley, No. 1, stood back and watched the performance. To a newspaper man she said: "I guess that wife No. 2, must love him, or she would never kiss him while he had the handcuffs on his wrists."

While Mrs. Hinkley, No. 1, sat in Matron Brunner's apartments at the Elmira police headquarters, she told the story of her life. It was a sad one. She said that her home had always been in or near Laquin and that her mother had been dead many years. After her marriage with Hinkley they lived happily together for a short time. Domestic troubles arose. The woman declared that she had Hinkley arrested for non-support at one time, but she never pressed the charge. She stated that Hinkley had been cruel to her on various occasions.

"How did I learn that he had been married for the second time?" She replied, "Well, I was in Rochester and I learned that such was the case. I talked to someone in the Lackawanna roundhouse here over the long distance telephone, and they informed me that Hinkley was working for them and that he was married and resided on LaFrance street. I came to Elmira. That was three weeks ago. I went to the house on LaFrance street, but no one responded to my knock at the door. I then went to a neighbor's and learned that my husband had been married again. I located one of the witnesses to the ceremony and talked with her. Finding that he had married a second time, I went before the authorities and made my complaint. "I was stopping at a local hotel with a woman friend and Mr. Hinkley came to the hotel and talked with me. He asked that for the sake of his wife, that I would drop the proceedings and he would assist me to get a divorce. 'But where is your wife?' I demanded. 'Over on the Southside,' he replied. 'But who am I?' I persisted. You are my wife, too,' he replied. I told him that I could no nothing for him. I am here to see this thing through and I am going to do it."

Stops Lameness

Much of the chronic lameness in horses is due to neglect.

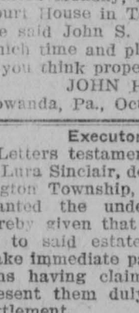
See that your horse is not allowed to go lame. Keep Sloan's Liniment on hand and apply at the first sign of stiffness. It's wonderfully penetrating — goes right to the spot — relieves the soreness — limbers up the joints and makes the muscles elastic and pliant.

Here's the Proof.

Mr. G. T. Roberts of Resaca, Ga., R.F.D. No. 1, Box 43, writes: — "I have used your Liniment on a horse for sweeney and effected a thorough cure. I also removed a spavin on a mule. This spavin was as large as a guinea egg. In my estimation the best remedy for lameness and soreness is

Sloan's Liniment

Mr. H. M. Gibbs, of Lawrence, Kans., R.F.D. No. 3, writes: — "Your Liniment is the best that I have ever used. I had a mare with an abscess on her neck and one 50c. bottle of Sloan's Liniment entirely cured her. I keep it around all the time for gails and small swellings and for everything about the stock."



Sloan's Liniment will kill a spavin, curb or splint, reduce wind puffs and swollen joints, and is a sure and speedy remedy for fistula, sweeney, founder and thrush.

Price 50c. and $1.00

TROY BOROUGH IS WEALTHIEST

Half Shire Town Has Personal Property Valuation of Over Half Million.

TOTAL FOR THE COUNTY IS ONLY $3,261,543.

Troy is Richest Town, With Towanda Second and Canton Third. Slight Increase in the County Over the Year 1908.

Troy, the half shire town, is the richest borough in Bradford county according to the assessors returns on personal property. The personal property returns which take into account stocks, bonds, money in banks, money at interest, etc., gives Troy borough's total as $580,000. Towanda is second on the list, and Canton third. Sayre and Athens are well down toward the centre.

The total valuation of personal property in Bradford county is $3,261,543. This is a slight increase over the year of 1908, when the total was $3,258,346.

Bradford county is well up toward the front in the list of personally rich counties, but not where it should be. Notwithstanding the severe penalty which is attached to the offense of making a false return of personal property to the assessors, it is alleged that in many instances wealth is turned in at about half value. The commissioners must make return to the Auditor General by Aug 1, of each year, and while the above figures will be the basis of taxation this year, in 1910 steps will be taken to bring out the full return on all personal property in the county. The figures will be vastly different, it is expected.

The Law.

The act of June 8, 1891, which applies to the making of returns of personal property to the assessors, says:

"The making of a false or fraudulent return is wilful and corrupt perjury, and the penalty a fine of $500 imprisonment not exceeding 7 years, and the perpetual disqualification of the party making the same from being a witness."

Increases in Many Counties.

Large increases are noted in many counties of the state, the total valuation in Pennsylvania this year being $1,141,894,087.92. This is a record-breaker, not only for Pennsylvania, but for the entire country, for it is greater than the total in any other state.

Taxes to the amount of $4,567,576.36 are levied by the state upon this total, and three-fourths of this sum is returned by the state to the respective counties; the total thus returnable to counties this year is $3,391,425.53 of which amount Bradford county will receive about $9,000.

The total valuation a year ago was $1,104,513,428.94, this year showing an increase of $37,380,658.98 over those figures. Fifty-four of the sixty-seven counties of the state show an aggregate increase of $38,490,673.89, while the remaining thirteen counties show a decrease of $1,110,014.91; this makes a net increase for the whole state of $37,380,658.98. The one puzzle of the whole situation is why thirteen of the counties show decreases in the valuation.

"We are trying to find out why these thirteen counties show such decreases," says Auditor General Young, "and we have hopes that we shall be successful."

Decreases are shown as follows: Armstrong, $206,086.24; Bedford, $44,675; Clearfield, $33,807.43; Elk, $51,484; Huntingdon, $4,463.31; Indiana, $104,075.23; Lawrence, $12,149; McKean, $168,990; Mercer, $12,643; Montour, $811; Perry, $25,778; Potter, $67,773; Tioga, $351,729.

The following amounts were recovered when the several counties were asked why the returns were so small: Armstrong, $5,892.76; Butler, $3,518; Clearfield, $37,904.31; Crawford, $19,034; Huntingdon, $14,509; Indiana, $52,084.27; Lebanon, $162,600; Mifflin, $25,198; Somerset, $127,062; Sullivan $24,940.50; Tioga, $84,700; Washington, $188,131.

Bradford county will be asked why not a larger increase next year.

CONTRACTOR WHALEN IS AFTER LIGHT PURLOINERS.

Offers Reward For Arrest of Parties Who Stole Danger Lamps.

Contractor Edward Whalen, who so many times has been made the victim of pilferers and thieves, has been "touched" again, and as a result he is very determined to make it warm for the guilty parties.

The other day he discovered that some one had broken into his steam shovel at Barclay and had stolen articles worth from $40 to $50.

One night this week some miscreant stole a number of the danger lights which had been placed along the new state road which is under construction near Coolbaugh's in Wysox township. Not only were some of the lights stolen, but others were smashed and thrown over the bank, having been done, evidently, out of pure deviltry.

Now Mr. Whalen is on the warpath, and he is very anxious to locate the parties who pulled off these jobs. He will pay $15 for the arrest and conviction of the parties who broke into the steam shovel at Barclay, and he will pay a like amount for the parties who made the lights disappear at Wysox.

BURLINGTON TOWNSHIP SUPERVISORS PROSECUTED

It is Alleged They Failed to Remove Stones From Public Highway.

Three more township supervisors in Bradford county are "up against it," so to speak, for not complying with the law which requires that all loose stones be removed from the public highways.

The second and latest board of supervisors in this county to be prosecuted are the three gentleman officiating in Burlington township. It is alleged specifically that they failed to remove the stones from the road from Luthers mills to Mountain Lake and are thus subject to the penalty which the laws imposes.

Justice of the Peace John Meredith has the case, and all parties will appear before him on Monday, Nov. 11, when a hearing will he held. The law requires that the supervisors of the townships shall at all times keep the public highways in their respective townships free from loose stone. During the months of May, June, August and October, the law requires that all loose stones be removed and the other eight months of the year, the roads kept free of them.

This is the second case of the kind to be prosecuted in this county since the law became effective. Some time ago Mail Carrier Charles Ross of Ulster, prosecuted the supervisors of Ulster township, and when they were arraigned before a justice, they were discharged upon the payment of $10 and the promise to see that the stones were removed.

The penalty is $10 fine for each supervisor, but as no case is brought for the purpose of costs, it is the practice to settle by the payment of a single fine which is made up by the three supervisors.

Defendant Discharged.

Jesse Ackley, charged with the larceny of some timber from the Owego Bridge company, was given a hearing before 'Squire Meredith Friday, and after hearing the testimony, the 'Squire discharged the defendant. Silas Campbell on behalf of the Bridge company, was the prosecutor. Mr. Campbell alleged that the defendant stole lumber to the value of $3.50, but the evidence showed that only a few small blocks, of practically no value, were taken from the site of the new bridge being erected near Woodside in Towanda township, and thus the dismissal of the case.

JURY RETURNS VERDICT IN FAVOR OF TROY TOWNSHIP.

Second Trial of Rockwell Damage Case Ends Same as the First.

The jury which heard the evidence in the case of Clarence W. Rockwell vs. Troy township in the court held at Troy last week, early Saturday morning returned a verdict in favor of the defendant township.

Mr. Rockwell alleged that Troy township placed stakes or posts in the creek which diverted the stream, causing damage to his house. He asked damages amounting to about $1,000. The case was tried once before, and resulted in a verdict for the township. Judge Fanning, who heard the case that time, granted a new trial, and it was called in Troy court last week Monday.

Judge Fanning was subpoenaed as a witness for the plaintiff, but was not called to testify. He was unable to act as trial judge on account of the subpoena, and Judge Cameron of Tioga county, was on the bench.

The jury retired about 4 o'clock on Friday afternoon, and on the first ballot eleven voted in favor of a verdict in favor of the township. The twelfth man refused to agree with the eleven, and after an hour's debate, they returned to the court room for further instruction.

The eleven jurors were until after midnight convincing the twelfth man that he was wrong, and a verdict for the defendant township was finally reached.

David J. Fanning of Troy, and Hon. E. M. Dunham of Sayre, were attorneys for the plaintiff, while H. K. Mitchell and T. S. Hikok represented the defendant township.
